PREFACE.

ALTHOUGH three persons, John M. Pettingell, Mr. Charles H. Pope, and Charles I. Pettingell have participated in the publication of this book, John M. Pettingell deserves the entire credit. If he had not engaged for years in a patient and persistent research the other two would not have had an opportunity to publish the genealogy.

It was nearly ten years ago that he began to collect data concerning people of the name. As he lived in the county in which his ancestor Richard had settled, he was able to take from local records much pertaining to the early generations. By constant correspondence he came into touch with the family at large, securing fragments of data which gradually found their proper places in his compilation. Several years went by in which his material overflowed from one record book into six, and his correspondence grew into the thousands. In 1901 the work, which was reasonably near completion, was suddenly stopped by the compiler's death.

For nearly a year the manuscript lay untouched. In the spring of 1902, while a student in the Harvard Law School, I examined the data to see what could be done toward publication. I was entirely unfamiliar with this kind of work and had never seen the material which had been collected. To secure the opinion of an experienced person I carried the manuscript books to Mr. Charles H. Pope who had published genealogies of his own compilation and had edited the compilations of others. He reported that the manuscript was in a fine condition and but for arrangement and copying nearly ready for the printer.

Upon his advice work was at once begun. Mr. Pope undertook the arrangement of the book, preparing a simple and comprehensive scheme which has proven sufficiently elastic to meet all demands.

At the same time the copying was begun under his supervision. Later, when the necessity of strict economy became apparent, I took over the copying as a personal task, following faithfully, however, Mr. Pope's arrangement.

In the summer of 1903, a printer having been found who would undertake the publication, the book went to press. Steady progress was made until June, 1904, when financial complications stopped the work. It was not begun again until nearly a year later. In the meantime I had completed the copying and had also, wherever possible, filled in places which the compiler had left incomplete. Places of this nature occurring in the first part of the book, I was unable to attend to in time, and the book went to press with these as the compiler had left them. Those who are interested will notice that the line of my own family is incomplete. Doubtless the compiler intended to give this line more attention before publication. In the hurry to get the remote parts of the book into a presentable condition, this more immediate part went to the printer unpolished and unfinished. It will be apparent to all that the latter part of the book is in better shape than the first part. The experience gained in the preparation of the first part shows itself in the latter part.

There are a few matters about which I wish to speak briefly. First of all, this book is far from complete; no genealogy is ever complete. This much should be remembered, the book was reasonably up-to-date in 1901, since when all our energy has been directed toward publishing what had at that time been collected. There has been little time left in which to keep the book up-to-date. No consistent effort has been made to carry on the compiler's research, although much data has been secured and incorporated.

Next, in regard to mistakes, wrong statements and wrong dates. My experience makes me certain that the book contains many mistakes. I will state what precautions have been taken to ensure exactness. When the manuscript had been copied, before the copy went to the printer, it was compared carefully with the manuscript. The proof which came from the printer was read not by the copy, but by the manuscript. Wherever possible, proof, or copies of sketches have been sent to the persons interested to give them opportunities to make corrections. This last procedure applies naturally to only a small part of the book.

Despite these precautions, I am sure that there are mistakes. Much of the data has been sent in by letter, and oftentimes has come from people other than those described. When it is a fact that a person in writing concerning himself has given two dates for his own birth or marriage, it can be seen what the chances are of a writer's making mistakes concerning parents, or brothers or more distant relatives. Cases have come to light where members of a family have sent in conflicting data concerning each other; it is also an ordinary thing to find people disagreeing with town records regarding dates of birth, marriage or death. We have published what was sent us; even admitting that the proofreader has let mistakes stand undetected, the chances of mistakes on the part of our informants are many.

Another matter is in regard to the spelling of the name. People have written me to say that they cannot belong to this family because they spell the name in a way differing from mine. The custom of spelling a family name in a fixed way is modern. Many of our ancestors could not write; those who could, spelled phonetically, and sometimes spelled their names in different ways, not only on the same day but in the same document. It was the sound which was important and not the spelling. It cannot be laid down as a fact that any one way of spelling the name is correct or has a historic basis. We have no signature of Richard Pettingell's; the fact that he did not sign his will allows us to infer that he could not write. His descendants of the early generations seem to have spelled in the indiscriminate manner of their age, and now their descendants, all in line from Richard, spell as diversely as "Pettingell," "Pet-tengill," "Pettingill," "Pattengill," and "Pattangall."

Being confronted with this diversity of spelling, I naturally chose, as a standard, my own way, giving wherever possible the way used by each individual. As it would have been too difficult of execution to carry out consistently the spelling adopted by each family, I have always used the one spelling, with the statement that the person or family spells the name in this or that way. Of the forms in use, "Pettengill" and "Pettingill" are perhaps the most common. "Pettingell" is surely not so common as "Pettengill." Those persons who are descendants of Nathaniel of Andover seem universally to spell the name "Pettengill." Those in the first part of the book are far from uniform in the spelling.

In sending out this book, I wish that I could thank personally all who have aided in the work. There are many who aided the compiler and are unknown to me; some of those who were his helpers have also been mine. Then there are a few who have become interested in the work since my connection with it. All of these I thank heartily, and not for myself alone but for him whose book this is, who, had he lived, would himself have thanked them. The few who have been suspicious and uncharitable are lost in the multitude of those who have displayed sympathy and appreciation.

If the finders of mistakes in these pages will inform me, I will note the mistakes, and any one who wishes later to complete or revise the work may have the benefit of the notes.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

WHEN the arrangement of this book was planned after the compiler's death, it was the intention of those interested to include in the book an article on the family in England, past and present. Owing to the inability of the editor to raise sufficient money to secure data enough to make such an article of historical value, we are obliged to omit it.

Mr. Charles H. Pope, while in England to carry on a private genealogical research, took occasion to make notes of what he could find concerning the family and incidentally to search for the ancestry of Richard Pettingell. Acting upon the suggestion made by a member of the Fuller family (see page 4 of the genealogy), Mr. Pope examined the records in the neighborhood of Topcroft, Norfolk. His particular purpose was to see if a will could be found in which reference is made to our Richard as a descendant. Although several Richards were found, there was none who could be identified with our ancestor. Mr. Pope also made several stray notes showing the antiquity of the family. Birth and marriage records similar to those in the note which follows are numerous in that locality.

So many inquiries have been made concerning a family coat of arms that it ought to be said frankly that we have none. Apparently Richard Pettingell came from sober and solid but humble stock, as did so many of his contemporaries. The records show that only a very few people in New England had coats of arms. Probably not one family in a hundred of those now claiming this distinction is rightly entitled to it. In any case, no Pettingell appears in the list of those in the colonies who had a coat of arms, and correspondence with the College of Arms, London, the official registry of arms and pedigree, assures us that we have no right to arms.

The name is still to be found in Norfolk, I am informed, and the members of the family there are said to be numerous and prosperous.

JOHN MASON PETTINGELL.

WHEN the compiler of this book prepared the sketch of his own life, he gave such a short and modest account of himself that his friends have thought it well to elaborate that account and add to it. For this reason we would like to tell here something of the man as we knew him, to give to the readers of his book an idea of his character and personality.

In appearance he was a gruff, silent man, and because of this appearance he was misjudged by some. Those who knew him knew that his eyes frequently twinkled merrily and that his gruffness covered a big heart. He was reserved, seldom speaking of himself or his affairs. After his death it was apparent that this reserve had served to conceal serious cares and troubles. He was a companionable man, well-informed, a good talker when with his friends, and possessed of many talents which made his friendship and company desirable.

In no way did his whole make-up display itself more characteristically than in his service during the Spanish-American War. Because the incidents of that service are typical of his whole life, we relate them as the best way of making him known to the readers of his book.

Some years before the war he had joined the militia of his State, serving as first lieutenant of Company B, 8th Mass., M. V. M. This company, composed of intelligent and painstaking men, had put such effort and study into its work that in 1898, before the Spanish War broke out, the company of fifty-eight enlisted men and three commissioned officers had a record of sixty-one qualified sharpshooters. When the call to arms came that year, Lieutenant Pettingell was away from home on business, but he returned at once, in time to leave with the company. In the militia service, the men had had a chance to get acquainted with him, — at least so they thought, — and to-day more than one member of the company will admit that Lieutenant Pettingell was not their most popular officer when they marched away that spring. Before the regiment had been very long in the United States service, this unpopularity had become more pronounced and had even grown, on the part of many, into a bitter dislike. He was charged with unnecessary severity in discipline, and his gruff manner caused him to be called by his townsmen overbearing and unsympathetic.

In time this feeling entirely changed. Experience taught that the discipline which he sought to enforce was for the good of all, and that if he was a severe taskmaster, he was also impartial. The men learned that although he promised nothing, he did many things, and that his whole energy was directed toward their welfare. When either advice or assistance was needed, it was found that although he was brusque and short in speech, he had a ready ear and was quick to act. The men in the hospitals discovered that their condition was within the lieutenant's daily notice, and learned to look for his hearty word and maybe some little comfort or dainty as he went his daily round. Perhaps it was this care for the sick which, as much as anything, won the love of the men. The testimony of a brother officer shows how thorough and unselfish this care was and under what circumstances it was given:

"I knew him to be perhaps the hardest working officer in the regiment. It was an hour's walk to the Division Hospital; nevertheless, he went there daily to visit the sick of his company, and nine out of ten times he walked, through lack of a conveyance. Despite this call upon his time he did not neglect the regular drills of his company, and never lost any time from any regular duty. When the company funds were exhausted, he did not hesitate to use his own money to buy the necessary delicacies for his sick and convalescent. I could not estimate the time he spent for the company during this period, but it was never less than fourteen or sixteen hours a day, and many days it was even more."

Besides the sick, some of the well also needed attention. Homesickness, combined with bad food and unsanitary living, broke down many a strong man. When typhoid fever swept through the camp, it was necessary to keep up the spirits of the men when their comrades were fast succumbing around them. Owing to the sickness of his captain, Lieutenant Pettingell had to take up the responsibility of caring for the health of a hundred men in addition to his regular routine work. Although he started with a reputation for unnecessary severity, he came out of the experience with the love of the whole company. His entire time had been given in tireless service, which at last came to be understood and appreciated.

One of the sufferers of this period has since said of Lieutenant Pettingell's generosity, "He would give you the shirt from his own back, but he wouldn't want any one to know that you had it."

While this company was camping at Lexington, Ky., where it was recuperating after the fever days of Chickamauga, the men planned to show their regard for the Lieutenant. A day off, free from duty, had been given to the regiment. The men of Company B were slow in getting ready for the outing which had been arranged, causing the Lieutenant to reprove them. At last he came into the company street to discover the cause of the delay. The signal was given, and the waiting soldiers crowded merrily around him, whereupon one of them presented him with a handsome sword. He thanked them briefly, saying that he could not say much then. That night at roll-call, after the company had returned to camp, there were cries of "Speech, speech!" The Lieutenant, yielding at last, stepped forward and said, "I always thought that you fellows didn't like me, but —" his voice broke and he hesitated, "damn you, good-night," and he turned and bolted.

In the winter of 1898 he was assigned to Company C of the same regiment, later becoming its captain. The men of this company had heard of their new commander and were eager to have him with them. The day that he moved to Company C there was nearly a fight between the men of the two companies, each claiming the privilege of moving his property to the new location. Company C had decorated its company street and had built an arch bearing words of welcome. When the Lieutenant arrived, he was given a rousing greeting.

With this company, Captain Pettingell worked as he had worked with Company B, gaining the same love and affection which the old company had felt for him. Company C presented him with a diamond ring, and the citizens of Marblehead, the home of the company, showed by their reception of him their appreciation of his care for the welfare of their townsmen. At Amesbury, too, his residence, and the home of Company B, he received a stirring welcome. At the public reception tendered the company, which he was unable to attend, every mention of his name started spontaneous and hearty cheering. He was a man who seldom boasted, but he was once heard to say with pride that he could recruit a full company in either Amesbury or Marblehead in a matter of a few minutes.

After the return from the United States service, Company B and Company C disbanded, and Captain Pettingell retired from the militia. His situation was not an enviable one. In his year of service he had lost his business position and had been at heavy expense. In the effort to start anew, he found himself handicapped by serious attacks of an illness which it is now believed was caused by the hard work and fatigue of the service. His tremendous vitality enabled him to throw off these attacks lightly at first; as he was not given to mentioning his troubles to his friends, many who knew him well never knew that he had had a sick day. With unflinching courage he struggled on, in silence, but always cheerful when friends or family were near. In 1901, while away from home and at a time when the outlook once more was bright, he was suddenly taken ill and three days later he died, June 24, 1901.

1. RICHARD PETTINGELL<sup>1</sup> was born in England about the year 1620, as we learn from the following deposition:

The Deposition of Richard Pettingall aged 47 testifyeth that John Webster came to me of a Lords day before the sun was down & charged me and my son to take charge of John Atkinson untill he had occasion to call for him.

Afterwards wee went to Mr. Thomas his house & John Atkinson proffered m<sup>r</sup> Thomas that if m<sup>r</sup> Thomas wold pay him within one month what he owed to him he shold have that Cagg of sturgeon which was now in John Kents boat delivered to him for his use at boston againe but m<sup>r</sup> Thomas wold not. [Not signed.]

Testified at a meeting of the Comissioners for Small Causes in Newbury Sept. 4, 1667. [Essex Court Files XIII, 49.]

When giving testimony in the court at Hampton (now in New Hampshire), 14(8)1673, he deposed that he was "about 52 years old;" in 1678, when he took the oath of allegiance, he is said to have been "about 60." The statements were approximate, of course. His testimony at Hampton was in a trial about the rights of certain heirs to Giles Fuller's estate and was, viz.: "Rich. Pettingell aged about 52 years saith yt being very well acquainted wth Giles Fuller of Hampton deceased & wth Mr Fuller of Bastable doctor both in Old England & here in New England & both told mee they were of Kinn & ye sd Giles Fuller have told mee in old England & now that Matth. Fuller doctor now of Bastable was ye nearest kinsman he had.

“Sworn before ye County Court held att Hampton ye 14: 8 m<sup>o</sup>. 1673 as attested.” Fuller is positively known to have come from Topcroft in Norfolk, England,* and it is the opinion of one of the Fuller family who has investigated the problem that Pettingell came from Shottesham in the same county. Elsewhere we present an article upon this subject.

Richard was a resident of Salem before 1641, and must have been a member of the church; for he was admitted to the freemanship of the colony June 2, 1641, a dignity to which none attained at that date except members of the church, recommended by the minister of the place. He had a grant of a lot of land — 10 acres — at “Enon” (afterward Wenham) in 1642, and removed to that section, where he resided several years. He was received to the church there by letter from that of Salem 4(6)1649. He witnessed the will of Samuel Smith at Enon 10(5)1642.

Richard Pettingell was a man of weight of character, as the following shows: [From the Salem Town Records.]

At a general towne meeting held the sevent day of the fifth month 1644, ordered, — That twoe be appointed every Lords day to walke forth in the time of Gods worshippe, to take notice of such as either lye at home, or in the fields wthout giving good account thereof, and to take the names of such psons, to present them to the magistrate, whereby they may be accordinglie pceeded against; the names of such as are ordered to doe this service are: [here follows a list] on the seventh day Richard Pettingell and John Ingersoll.

He again made a change of residence to a place further east, the plantation of Newbury, where he bought a tract of land April 8, 1651, having sold his houses and lands in Wenham to Samuel Forster. He made his home near what is now known as “The Upper Green,” on the high road, on the right-hand side; part of the house is still standing (1900). The town gave him, in 1651, 14 acres of marsh in consideration of his giving a right of way 4 rods wide through his land, situated on what is now called Ocean avenue (formerly Rolfe's lane). In 1661 Richard Pettingell and others were chosen grand jurymen for the year. In 1665 he was granted an island in Plum Island river near Sandy beach by a committee appointed by the town to settle the dispute between Richard Pettingell and John Emery regarding the division as laid out. He was one of those chosen in 1671 "for a Jury of Tryalls at Ipswich court."

July 15, 1695, in separate deeds, he conveyed certain houses and farms in Newbury and other interests to his sons Samuel, Matthew, and Nathaniel. He died shortly after, his wife having died two or three years before.

The family became one of much note in Newbury; in the tax list of 1711 we find the following names of descendants of Richard<sup>1</sup>: Matthew, Matthew, Jr., Nathaniel, Nathaniel, Jr., John, Nicholas, Samuel, Richard, Joseph, Thomas, and the widow Sarah. Daniel and Cutting, of taxable age, were also living in the town, as we believe, at that time. In subsequent years, also, the family has been largely represented, as will be seen in the following pages.

He married some time before 1644 Joanna, daughter of Richard Ingersoll (name sometimes written Ingerson and Inkerson), probably by his wife Ann.

Richard Ingersoll came from Bedfordshire, England, to Salem in 1629, under contract with the Massachusetts Bay Company to take a place in the force of planters they were gathering. His family was to be brought over, and he was well spoken of by the company's secretary in a letter to Gov. John Endecott. [See Suffolk Deeds, I.] He maintained a ferry at Salem in 1636; had large property. He died in 1644. His will is interesting.

It has been asserted that a certain house at Salem was built by Ingersoll and was the original of the romance by Hawthorne — “House of the Seven Gables.” Ann, the widow, married second John Knight, Sen., of Newbury.
Some years later litigation arose over the farm her husband had willed her, and in the trial her son-in-law gave the following testimony:

“I, Richard Pettingell, aged About 45 years doe testify that this farm of land that is now in contriverry was Reserved by the widow Inkersoll to her self before her marriage to John Knight Senior and shee verbally gave this land to John Inkersoll her son. I Richard Pettingell doe farder testify that about the year 52 the said John Knight cam hom too Newbury and tould his wif that hee had promised m<sup>r</sup> pain sum timber at the lot at frost fish river: she was then troubled at it and said what have you to doe to sell my timber wher upon the said John Knight promised her twenty shillings: and the said John Knight Senior did then oun that he had no right in that land." [Essex Court Files, XIV, 28-32.] Mr. Knight then joined with his wife in conveying the farm to her sons John and Nathaniel "Ingerson," as the deed was written by the scrivener.

3. MATTHEW,<sup>2</sup> (Richard,<sup>1</sup>) born about 1648; married in Newbury, 13 April, 1674, Sarah, daughter of Nicholas and Mary (Cutting) Noyes, born 22 Aug., 1653; her father was a brother of Rev. James Noyes and a son of Rev. William and Anne (Parker) Noyes, of Cholderton, Wiltshire, England. Nicholas Noyes is said to have been the first man to step ashore at Parker river, Newbury, in 1635.

Matthew is said to have lived on the old road from Newbury to Boston, just beyond the 37th milestone; his grandson Nicholas lived there awhile, then removed to the house on the high road with brick ends, near the head of Ocean avenue. Matthew's house was torn down in 1830 and the little white house built near it. Matthew Pettingell, Sen., took the oath of allegiance in 1678, "aged 30." He bought land of Joseph Woodbridge Jan. 11, 1699; sold land to Ezra Rolfe Oct. 1, 1707; to Samuel Homans same date; bought land of James March Nov. 3, 1708; bought marsh land on Little River of Robert Hale Oct. 26, 1710; bought from the heirs of John Wolcott 22 acres at the upper common June 10, 1691. He was a feltmaker.

Oct. 24, 1714, he willed to his wife; to eldest son Nathaniel and other children, Matthew, Hannah, Nicholas, Cutting, Sarah, Mary, John and Abigail. In the papers relating to the division it appears that Joanna was the wife of Joseph Mussey and that the other daughters were still single; that Major James Noyes was guardian for Abigail.

FOURTH GENERATION.

40.† BENJAMIN,<sup>4</sup> (Matthew,<sup>3</sup> Matthew,<sup>2</sup> Richard,<sup>1</sup>) born in Newbury May 15, 1707; was published Dec. 7, 1723, to Hannah Cheismore. He was married, Dec. 30, 1729, to Elizabeth Stickney at Haverhill; she survived him and married second, Aug. 14, 1757, Samuel Sanborn; she died Oct. 16, 1762.

He was a tailor. Benjamin, son of Matthew, was admitted to full communion in the church Dec. 31, 1727.

* Found on p. 45.

† Mr. Pope, who arranged the manuscript for publication, was strongly of the opinion that the compiler had made a mistake and had confused Benjamin,<sup>3</sup> Nathaniel,<sup>3</sup> Richard,<sup>1</sup> with Benjamin,<sup>4</sup> Matthew,<sup>3</sup> Matthew,<sup>2</sup> Richard,<sup>1</sup>. Acting in accordance with this opinion, he placed this Benjamin as the descendant of Nathaniel,<sup>2</sup> Richard,<sup>1</sup>. After due deliberation it has seemed better to me to follow the original order adopted by my brother. It is impossible, however, to put this Benjamin in his proper place without upsetting the numbering of the whole book. Benjamin,<sup>3</sup> Nathaniel,<sup>2</sup> Richard,<sup>1</sup> is No. 18, found on page 45. Mr. Pope still adheres to his first opinion. The articles remain as they were originally written by my brother.—C. I. P.

He bought, at various times, from 1735 to 1747, land in Haverhill, on the Kingston road, in the part of Haverhill which was later set off as Plaistow. He was one of the proprietors of Contoocook, N. H. He and his wife were dismissed from the Newbury church May 31, 1756, and recommended to that of Plaistow, N. H., to which place they had removed. There he died May 30, 1756, the very day before his application for a letter of dismissal had been granted.

Administration on his estate was granted Nov. 24, 1756, to his widow Elizabeth, and inventory filed Feb. 18, 1757, he left considerable property at Sandown, N. H. Jonathan Carlton gave bonds as guardian of James. Dec. 17, 1773, David, Andrew, Elizabeth and Joanna (who had married Joseph Calef) received their shares of the estate.

One of the twelve Revolutionary patriots to whom Congress gave an additional pension of one hundred dollars was John Pettingell, who died at Henderson, Jefferson county, N. Y., April 23, 1864, aged over 97 years. The United States pension commissioner said of him that "he was but 14 years old when he entered the service in Windham county, Conn., in 1780, and was engaged in coast guard duty and in assisting to erect forts at New London, Stamford and Horse Neck, on the Connecticut coast, and also at Throgg's Neck, N. Y. He served till the close of the war under Capt. Dana. After the war he resided at Norwich, Conn., Weathersfield, Vt., Adams and Ellisburg, N. Y." He was once sent as a messenger to General Washington's headquarters, an experience which he related with much pride in his later years.

A newspaper published near Henderson, in noticing his death, said that Mr. Pettingell had lived in Henderson from its settlement. He was born in Windham, Conn., Nov. 30, 1766, and was in New Jersey when the French fleet entered the Delaware, and at Yorktown the day after the surrender of Cornwallis. His name was on the Albany, N. Y., roll, at fifty dollars per annum, and as the pensions were paid March 4 and Sept. 4, he and some others lived to receive some benefit from the "one hundred dollars increase." He was blind for twenty years before his death. Just before his death he was fully conscious that his end was approaching. His son left the bedside at midnight, April 22; in the morning he found his father lying as he had left him, but his spirit had taken flight.

After leaving school he taught for a while and worked in a scythe factory in Oakland, Me. April 26, 1861, he enlisted in Co. G, 3d Me. Vol., serving about fourteen months. Upon returning from the army and recovering his health, he engaged with John P. #### ANOTHER REVOLUTIONARY SOLDIER GONE.

DIED,

At his residence in Clarendon, on the fourth of the present month, Benjamin Pettengill, in the 83d year of his age. He was born at Yarmouth, Me., in the year 1761, and at the age of twenty enlisted into the United State Service as a soldier, where he performed with fidelity and courage the severest hardships and trials during three long years of bloody warfare, Colonial defence against British cruelty and tyrannical oppression without compensation for his service.

The unequal contest being gloriously ended, and America declared free and independent, he returned in joy to his native Province, with the precious boon of freedom spreading over our delightful country, and destined to encircle a world in its embrace. When returning from the service of his country, he endured the frownings of cold and unfeeling selfishness for cordiality and penuriousness instead of a needed hospitality and consolation. He was even spurned from the doors of some of his fellow citizens with contempt and abhorrence, having only the impartial canopy of heaven for his nightly covering, or an airy barn as his nocturnal abode.

In the year 1810 he emigrated to Western New York, then called Genesee County, almost an entire wilderness, inhabited by wild beasts, ferocious savages, with now and then a few rude log huts interspersed over the now beautifully cultivated domain which we inhabit. Parma was the first place of his residence in N. Y.; he shortly moved to the town of Ogden, and from thence to Clarendon, Orleans county, where he has lived for the last seventeen years of his life. Up to his seventy-eighth year he gave his ballot as a free citizen to support that government he had so faithfully defended in his youth. Not only did he serve his country in her struggle for liberty, but, when called upon to defend our northern frontier in the last War, he left his family and friends to preserve our national honor and teach Great Britain that the same spirit that inspired the fathers of '76 was still remembered by themselves and their patriotic sons.

The last four years of his life was embittered by the loss of reason; gradually declining from honorable old age down to the unconscious, helpless state of infancy. While blest with reason he was unwavering in the cause of Christianity and virtue, beloved in society and a sincere, devoted member of the Methodist Church.

In the death of this Soldier, Christian and Friend, our town has been deprived of the last remaining Pensioner — religion of an ornament and helper — society of a friend — an aged Companion of a husband — and a mourning circle of children and relatives, of their father and protector in infancy.

From the MALDEN EVENING NEWS of May 23, 1903.

THE sudden death of Judge John W. Pettengill of heart failure at his home last evening has cast a gloom over our city and wherever he was known. The loss of such a citizen causes deep and general sorrow. For more than a quarter of a century he has sat upon the bench of the district court, and in the administration of his judicial office has, in the stern course of justice, never failed, owing to a natural tenderness of heart, to mingle mercy and human sympathy therewith when there was the least desert, or to deal out severe measure when the welfare of the great communities in his jurisdiction required it. He was a strong man, mentally and physically, and a tireless worker, always intensely interested in every movement for the advancement of the community in which he lived and the general welfare of his fellow men. In all the offices that he filled he proved his great ability, and in every public service his active mind, energy and determination made his service of great value to his fellow citizens. In the wisdom of the Infinite, which none of us can hope to understand, he has been taken away, and bowing submissively to the divine decree we can only mourn and hold his great qualities of heart and mind ever in loving memory.

HE was educated in the public schools and in the Franklin, Salisbury, Northfield and Hopkinton academies, and was fitted for college by Prof. Dyer H. Sanborn. In 1856 he became connected with the editorial department of the Independent Democrat of Concord, and while there began the study of law, reading in the office of Judge Asa Fowler. Early in 1858 he came to Massachusetts and entered the office of John Q. A. Griffin and Alonzo W. Boardman, in Charlestown, as a student, and in March, 1859, was admitted to the Middlesex bar. At the opening of the Civil War Judge Pettengill organized a company in Charlestown, which he equipped at his own expense and sent to the front. He practised in Charlestown until 1874, when he moved to Boston, where he has since been established. He was special justice of the police court of Charlestown for several years, and in August, 1874, was appointed justice of the first district court of Eastern Middlesex, which position he held at the time of his death. He was elected a trustee of the Malden Public Library Fund in 1878, for the term of three years, and declined a reëlection in 1881. He was a member of the board of aldermen in 1891, but declined a reëlection in 1892; he was elected again in 1893, but positively declined a nomination in 1894. He had been president of the Malden Board of Trade and was a member of the Middlesex, the New Hampshire and the Kernwood clubs and the Malden Deliberative Assembly.

In his early life he was engaged in building railroads. He laid tracks for the Maine Central and later for the Atlantic & St. Lawrence, now part of the Grand Trunk System. In 1851 he went West and worked on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago. In 1852, while performing his contract to lay track on the Chicago, Alton & St. Louis Railroad, he put down the first "T" rail crossing ever laid in the United States. This crossing was near Springfield, Ill., where the Chicago, Alton & St. Louis crossed the Wabash tracks, and was laid by Mr. Pettingill in the presence of Abraham Lincoln and a large crowd of spectators. Up to this time at all such crossings an expensive cast-iron rail had to be used.

After working on various lines in Illinois Mr. Pettingill went to New Orleans in 1853, and until the Civil War worked on many railroads in Louisiana and Texas. From 1861 until 1865 he was employed on the Pacific slope and in Indiana. In 1865 he returned to New Orleans and was employed in construction work on the New Orleans & Mobile Railroad, having charge of the track and bridges. In 1874 he went to Texas to take charge of the dredging on the Buffalo Bayou Ship canal, which was being dredged from Houston to Galveston. During his stay in Texas he erected his first cotton compress. In 1881 he went to Alexandria, La., having charge of the track laying on the Texas & Pacific.

Since 1881 he has resided at Alexandria, and has had many important contracts, not only in railroad work but in general construction work. From 1885 until 1901 he was in charge of the property of the New York Lumber Company. He also had the contract to build the levees around the company's property.

He has been an active citizen, earnest in his efforts in the interest of the community and a citizen highly respected and esteemed. He is a stockholder in the Commercial Bank and owns a great deal of valuable real estate. In his younger days he was a man of great physical strength. He spells the name "Pettingill." He has no children.

At the age of eighteen, he followed his parents to Omro, Wis., where they had already been settled a year. Two years later he returned East, and worked in various Maine cotton mills. After spending eight years in this way he went again to Wisconsin and engaged in different ventures in that state and in Iowa until, in 1871, he settled at Minneapolis. Here he opened a restaurant with a shoe store in the rear. Four years later he leased the Chalybeate Springs, where he built a popular resort noted for its freedom from the vices common at such resorts. In time the encroachments of the railroads and the use of the place for water-power purposes spoiled it as a resort, and Mr. Pettingell closed out his business and began farming. When the town of Staples was started he removed there. In 1893 he was appointed government timber estimator of the Chippewa Indian lands. Failing health compelled him to resign his position after a year's service.

Mr. Pettingell was a man of inventive mind, and made several useful inventions, among which were a drawbar for car coupling, and copper tips for children's shoes. During the Civil War he served in Co. K, 1st Me. Inf., enlisting May 3, 1861. He was a Democrat, active in politics. He spelled the name "Pettengill." His widow resided at Staples in 1897.

NATHANIEL PETTINGELL

N. 1. NATHANIEL PETTINGELL<sup>1</sup>* married, at Andover, Mass., July 14, 1720, Susannah,† daughter of Joseph and Sarah (Devereaux) Abbott, baptized at Marblehead, Mass., Aug. 10, 1701. Her father, who was the son of Capt. Thomas and Sarah (Stewart) Abbott, born at Andover, Aug. 16, 1674, was collector of customs at Marblehead in 1711. Nathaniel was probably living in 1769, as in that year his grandson Nathaniel is referred to as Nathaniel 3d.

March 27, 1718, a Nathaniel, felt maker of Newbury, bought land in Newbury of Richard Brown of Reading, late of Newbury. This, however, may have been Nathaniel (No. 12) who is elsewhere described as a felt maker. April 14, 1741, Nathaniel of Methuen, cooper, bought land of

* The relationship of Nathaniel with the main family of the descendants of Richard<sup>1</sup> has never been clearly established. The compiler regarded him as a descendant of Richard<sup>1</sup> in the fourth generation, a grandson of Matthew<sup>2</sup> (No. 3). Whatever reason the compiler may have had for this belief is not now ascertainable after a careful study of such of his papers as are in my possession. This failure to find the sources of his belief does not mean that the belief may not have been well founded; my experience in this work has been that frequently facts of which the compiler was perfectly sure were not reduced to writing, but being simple and elementary as well as necessary, were carried by him mentally, much as one carries the multiplication tables or the names of the days of the week. In several cases this apparent lack of record has been a hindrance until, fortunately, I have stumbled upon a casual sentence or statement which has given the clue needed. In the present case I can say simply that the compiler believed this man to be a descendant of Richard<sup>1</sup> and that I have found no documentary proof of the fact. Because of this lack of proof, both Mr. Pope and I have thought it better to give to Nathaniel and his descendants a separate part of the book instead of carrying them along in the main line, which was the arrangement used by the compiler. My own opinion is that a connection with the main line does exist and that it will some day be brought to light. — C. I. P.

† Susannah Abbott had a brother Joseph, whose great grandson, Benjamin Abbott, died at Boston, Mass., Sept. 20, 1872, having amassed a fortune in Cuba. One of his bequests was a fund given to Marblehead for the erection of Abbott Hall. In this hall the people of Marblehead welcomed the writer and his company on the day of their return from Cuba after the Spanish War, Sunday, April 9, 1899. — J. M. P. [Co. C, 8th Mass. U. S. V., which Captain Pettingell commanded, was originally the Marblehead company of the 8th Massachusetts militia and was recruited almost exclusively from Marblehead. — C. I. P.]

Nathan Andrew; May 8, 1741, he bought land of John Ward. This was undoubtedly the Nathaniel who married Susannah Abbott. July 5, 1763, Nathaniel, gentleman, Nathaniel, Jr., yeoman, and John, cordwainer, all of Methuen, agree upon a division of a farm.

In the settlement of the estate of Richard Swan, intestate, John Swan, his nephew, knowing that Richard had intended to give something to his grandchildren, the children of his daughter Elizabeth, gave his portion, April 11, 1770, to Nathaniel, Jr., Phinehas, Dudley, Benjamin and Susannah. Nathaniel willed his property, April 21, 1783, to his wife, "Jean," to his sons Phinehas, Dudley, Edmund, Joshua, David, Aaron, Moses, Nathaniel and Jedediah, and his daughters Susannah, wife of Joseph Avery, and Deborah; will proved June 2, 1783. N. 6. JOSEPH,<sup>3</sup> (Joseph,<sup>2</sup> Nathaniel,<sup>1</sup>) born at Methuen, Mass., Jan. 9, 1741; died at Newburgh, N. Y., about 1785; married first, at Andover, Mass., March 22, 1764, Sarah Farrington; married second, Tabitha —.

He served in Capt. Francis Peabody's co., Feb. 12, 1760, to April 16, 1761, and was in the Crown Point Expedition;

Dec. 25, 1760, he was made corporal. At the time of his enlistment, Joseph Austin (or Aston) is given as his "master." Joseph was also in the expedition against Canada, under Capt. Thomas Poor, Col. Ebenezer Nichols, Feb. 10 to Nov. 12, 1759. He was second lieutenant in Scammet's regt., May 19 to December, 1775; captain, 26th Continental Inf., Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, 1776; while with this regiment, Sept. 14, 1776, he lost goods in the evacuation of New York. His name appears as captain on an abstract for rations dated at New York, April 19, and on a receipt dated at Long Island, July 14, for provisions from April to July 13, 1776. Jan. 1, 1777, he was captain of the 9th Mass. Inf.; on a return from Boston dated Oct. 19, 1778, he appears a major; on a certificate of service given by him Feb. 25, 1779, he stated that he was a captain of one of the companies of the 15th Mass. battalion and was in camp on or before Aug. 15, 1777, and had continued in service up to date. On a depreciation roll he appears as captain and major in James Wesson's regt., service from 1777 to 1780. He was commissioned major July 26, 1779, and as such appears on a roll dated at West Point, May 1, 1781. Sept. 12, 1781, he signs a letter dated at Boston as major, 1st Mass. brigade. From a letter of Capt. Noyes, in the possession of E. Noyes of Amesbury, Mass., the following is taken:

"While in camp before Boston in 1776, a lieutenant in Badlam's co., from Newbury was court-martialed and broke and sent home for impersonating Capt. Pettingell in calling on a young lady. He had made her several visits in his name and Mrs. Pettingell hearing of it, Capt. Pettingell investigated and found the offender."

April 17, 1784, he bought one hundred and thirty-five acres at Newburgh on the river. He was one of the founders of the Order of Cincinnati in New Hampshire. He bade leave of Washington at Fraunce's Tavern at New York, and after the war settled at Newburgh.

“ He was a Massachusetts man, large and fine looking, very pleasant and jocosé. He built Pettingell’s landing at Newburgh and had a farm adjoining. His wife was very amiable, small in person, blue eyes, and shared camp life with him.” [History of Newburgh.]

He was graduated from Yale in the class of 1829; in early life he was a teacher, having, in 1838, a school of high grade. In 1839, he was editor and proprietor of the Republican Standard. In May, 1859, he was one of the incorporators of the City Savings Bank of Bridgeport; he was also a director of the First National Bank from 1864 to 1867. He had no children.

He was graduated from Yale with the degree of A.M., in 1837; later he studied at the Union Theological Seminary in New York City. In 1843, he was a professor in the deaf and dumb institution in New York and in that year he accepted a call as pastor of the Congregational church at South Dennis, Mass. He remained at this latter place until 1847. Subsequently he was pastor at Essex and Westbrook, Conn., and Saxonville, Mass. From 1852 until 1860 he resided at Albany and was secretary of the American Board of Foreign Missions. In 1856 and 1857, he visited the missions of the Board in Turkey, Greece and Servia. From 1866 until 1872 he traveled over northern Europe in behalf of the American Seaman's Friend Society, residing at Antwerp and acting as its chaplain. During the prevalence of cholera in 1866 he devoted much time to the care of the sick, and was publicly thanked for his efforts by the Belgian government.

On his return to the United States he resided for a time at New York and later at Philadelphia, where he wrote most of his books and essays. He was known chiefly as a writer on theological subjects and as the original American advocate of conditional immortality, teaching that only those who believe in Christ receive the gift of eternal life, and maintaining that this doctrine was held by the early Christian church until that institution was corrupted by Platonism. As these views did not meet with favor he suffered financial embarrassment, religious persecution and even social ostracism.

Although he experienced great difficulty in getting his books printed, he lived to see them widely circulated. They have been translated into German, Italian and other European languages. In England their sale has been very large and their author has been regarded as one of the brightest and most vigorous writers on his side of the controversy. At the time of his death he had a large following, and was constantly in receipt of letters from friends and converts, both in this country and in Europe.

Besides contributing largely to periodical literature he wrote "The Homiletical Index," a reference book for clergymen (New York), 1877; "The Theological Trileuna," 1878; "Platonism versus Christianity and Bible Terminology" (Philadelphia), 1881; "Life Everlasting," 1882; "The Unspeakable Gift" (Yarmouth, Me.), 1884; "Views and Reviews in Eschatology," 1887.

"S. M. Pettengill, one of the leading advertising agents in this country, began his business career in Boston in 1848 as a checking clerk and solicitor of advertisements for Volney B. Palmer, the first advertising agent in this country. At the end of the year he accepted a partnership with his brother in the Bridgeport Standard job office.

"In 1849 he started business for himself as a general advertising agent at 10 State Street, Boston. For the succeeding thirty years he conducted one of the most successful advertising agencies in the country. In 1852 he opened a branch office in New York, induced to do so by parties there who proposed to advertise extensively. He sold out his interest in the Boston office to Ubert K. Pettingill (No. 487); the firm there still retains the name of Pettingill & Co. In January, 1882, Park Row was swept by fire and his office burned out. Here he was almost without a rival, and numbered among his customers all the prominent advertisers of the country.

"The esteem in which Mr. Pettengill was held by his patrons and friends was well deserved. He was a man of engaging personality and the strictest commercial honor. For many years he was a devout member of Plymouth Church.

He died in 1891, leaving a large estate to his widow." ["Makers of New York," Philadelphia, 1895, Hammersly & Co.]

fitting for college at the Burr and Burton Seminary at Manchester, Vt., he entered Middlebury College in the class of 1862. Owing to illness at the end of his second year he never completed his course there, but later received the honorary degree of A.M. During the Civil War he served through the Gettysburg campaign in Co. D, 16th Vermont regt. After the war he began the study of medicine under Dr. Daniel Campbell of Saxtons River. In 1866, he was graduated from the Harvard Medical School; he also took courses at the University of Vermont and at the College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York. Ultimately he settled at Saxtons River, where the remainder of his life was given to the patient service of the country doctor, earning by his kindness and the gentleness of his nature the love and respect of the whole community. He managed also to keep in touch with the new ideas in his profession, and ranked among his professional brethren as a well-equipped but modest and conservative physician. He found time to serve his church and his town; he held many public offices, and in all he served zealously and conscientiously, whether as trustee of the public library, health officer of the town, or state supervisor of the insane. For four years he served alone as United States pension examiner, and was later, for ten years, a member of the examining board of the district. He was prominent in the work of the Grand Army. A large, noble man, he did his work faithfully but quietly; it was his idea that public business is but an extension of private and personal responsibilities. He spelled the name "Pettengill."

S. I. SAMUEL PETTINGELL<sup>1</sup>;* killed at the battle of Oriskany, Aug. 6, 1777; married Elizabeth Cline, who was born in Holland, Europe, and died March 9, 1790. Nellie and John Cline, brother and sister, who lived at Florida, N. Y., about 1830 or 1840, were relatives of Elizabeth.

Samuel was a doctor. His name appears on a tax list from one of the two eastern districts of Tryon county, and he is noted as being well to do. This list, which is without date, was prior to the Revolution, as it was made out in connection with the payment of the debt of the French and Indian War. Aug. 26, 1775, Samuel was captain of the 5th co., 3d bat. Mohawk Militia from Tryon county. His house was burned by the Johnson raiders, Oct. 25, 1781. His death had left his family destitute, as three days before the battle in which he was killed he had buried his money, which was never found. The winter after the house was burned the widow and children lived in the cellar hole, possessed only of what they could find in the ruins. Oct. 28, 1784, the state of New York paid a pension to Samuel's widow.

June 2, 1785, John, Jacob, Samuel, Joseph and William Pettingell signed separate orders dated at Warrensbush (Warrensburg) to have their pay paid to Gilbert Rosem Berry. Each spelled the name "Pettingell." Henry Pettingell was also in the Revolution from the same vicinity. Nov. 11, 1785, the children of John Pettingell were granted a pension by the state of New York.

* All that can be found concerning this man is contained in the sketch above, with the exception of a statement that he came from England in 1730, for which no authority is given. — C. I. P.

Samuel is said to have leased his farm from John Watts. Sept. 15, 1794, Benjamin Pettingell of Florida bought of John Watts land adjoining land leased by William Pettin-gell. June 1, 1801, Joseph, Henry and Cornelius Pettingell of Florida mortgaged land in Florida (Warrensburg) to Rulop Conover; it was bounded by land of Jacob Pettingell, John De Graff and Benjamin Pettingell. Nov. 5, 1804, Cor-nelius and Henry mortgaged the same land; it was then bounded by land of Nicholas Hill, John De Graff, Benjamin Pettingell and Christian Serviss. The land mortgaged was lot No. 118 and a part of lot No. 102. Jacob Pettingell had lot No. 119. John De Graff had lot No. 120.

SECOND GENERATION.

S. 2. WILLIAM,<sup>2</sup> (Samuel,<sup>1</sup>) born about 1758; married ———. Oct. 16, 1832, he made application for a pension, which was granted. He was then seventy-four years of age and resided at Milford, N. Y. He had enlisted from Montgomery county and had served fourteen and a half months, a part of the time as a private in Capt. Yate's co., of Col. Alden's regt. In 1840 he was living with his son Samuel at Milford.

S. 11. SAMUEL.<sup>3</sup>

S. 3. SAMUEL,<sup>2</sup> (Samuel,<sup>1</sup>) born Jan. 10, 1764; died April 3, 1822; married Margery Cooley, who died Dec. 5, 1833. He moved from Montgomery county, N. Y., and settled in Prince Edward county, Ontario, about 1818. He had served in the Revolutionary War, probably in the British army, as the following concessions were granted to his children because he was a United Empire Loyalist: * Aug. 24, 1837, to William, lot 19.7c in Verulam; on the same day similar grants to Martin, Samuel and Allen; Jan. 5, 1835, to Arnot and Joseph. Catherine of Hillier, Ontario, daughter of Samuel, prayed a United Empire Loyalist grant, and Aug. 24, 1837, lot 14.4, in Fenelon, was granted to her. Martha, daughter of Samuel, was granted lot 17.15 con. in Fenelon, June 19, 1834.

*The United Empire Loyalists, to use the words of a learned friend, "were those who, at the close of the Revolutionary War, left the colonies and emigrated to Canada, where they were given free grants of land. Several hundred of them went to Prince Edward county." To be a United Empire Loyalist one "must have sided with the Tories in the Revolution. Lands were sometimes granted to the descendants of Loyalists. The Loyalists were good stock; it was they who made upper Canada, and to this day to be a descendant of a United Empire Loyalist is in Ontario what it is in Massachusetts to be a descendant of a Mayflower Pilgrim."

The fact that many descendants of Samuel (No. S. 1) are to be found in Ontario, taken into consideration with these grants, would seem to indicate that there was a Tory branch of this family during the Revolution. — C. I. P.

This data has been collected from the compiler's loose papers and from the note books in which he copied data as he secured it. The chance of mistakes is very great, as the material has not had the careful working over which all that went into the final manuscript received. To make the book as complete as possible it has been thought advisable to include these odds and ends. — C. I. P.
